GERMAN GOLD RESERVE
READY FOR TRADE WAR

Consul General Morgan Says America Is Expected to Be Close Commercial Associate.

NEW YORK, October 2.—Germany will be ready for any trade war her enemies may wage against her after the end of hostilities in the field, says Henry H. Morgan, United States consul general at Hamburg, who has just returned from his post.

The consul general said that Germany expects America to be her closest trade associate after the war, and that German business men are confident there will then be only the most friendly business relations between the two nations.

"Germany expects, in fact, she realizes that, for a time after the war, her trade with the nations of the allies will be subject to great restrictions," he said. "Germany has not been blind to the action taken by the allies at their recent economic conference in Paris.

"But Germany expects to do a big business with America. Regardless of feelings that may have been engendered by the war Germany expects cordial relations with the United States."

German bankers will be in a position, after the war, to assist trade development in the fullest measure, concluded Consul General Morgan, who said Germany had sent little money out of the country for war expenses, as compared to what the allies had sent to America, and that the German store of gold will have a tendency to prevent any crippling of her ability to meet England in a struggle for world trade.

QUARTERS NOT YET CHOSEN.

Supreme Court Justices Have Hard Task Selecting Temporary Home.

No decision has been reached as to the location of temporary quarters for the District Supreme Court pending the renovation of city hall. Chief Justice Covington and the other justices are still looking for an available building. The attendance of large crowds at some sessions of the court must be provided for and demands a strength of building much in excess of the ordinary requirements for office purposes.

A building is desired which will accommodate the courts and the various offices now located in city hall, and a floor space of about 30,000 square feet is needed. A rental of between $5,000 and $12,000 can be paid, it is said, under the provisions of the appropriation.

BEGINS RAILWAY MAIL PROBE.

Interstate Commerce Commission Has Set No Dates for Hearings.

Investigation of the railway mail pay problem has been instituted, the interstate commerce commission announced today, and all railway common carriers have been made party to the proceeding. No dates for hearings have been set so far, but the purpose is to complete the work in time for a report to Congress this winter. In the meantime, the Post Office Department is making a test by substituting the space basis for mail pay on 80 per cent of its service.

Congress authorized the interstate commerce commission to act after a vigorous fight between the railroads and the department, the roads insisting upon the present weight system.

TO URGE REPUBLICANS TO GO HOME TO VOTE

League of State Clubs Plans Active Campaign in Behalf of Hughes and Fairbanks.

An active campaign to induce republican voters in Washington to go to their homes and cast their votes for Hughes and Fairbanks has been begun by the League of Republican State Clubs, which has opened headquarters in conjunction with the republican state committee of the District at 1412 H street.

At a meeting of the executive committee at headquarters last night the president, T. Lincoln Townsend, reported his recent conference with republican leaders in New York. He said he had found there enthusiasm and confidence in the outcome of the elections.

Meetings of the league will be held every Monday evening at the headquarters until election. It was announced that John G. Capers and Henry M. Camp, both members of the league, have appointments with the republican state committee in West Virginia, and that they will get into the thick of the fight there.

Mr. Camp, who has been at work in West Virginia, last night told the executive committee that the outlook for the republicans in that state was bright.

E. C. Snyder discussed the conditions in the west political, and predicted that his state, Nebraska, would not only go republican on the national ticket, but would elect a republican senator to succeed Senator Hitchcock.

E. C. Graham, his secretary, outlined the plan for reorganization of the republican state committee of the District. While primarily organized to fight district politics on a clean basis, he said, it was much interested in the situation throughout the country, and would take active part in the campaign to urge voters here to return to their homes to cast their ballots for the republican nominees.

That many former democrats in the District are anxious to have Hughes and Fairbanks elected was the statement made by Ralph Lee, William Tyler Fair discussed the issue over the so-called eight hour law, and predicted republican success.

OIL NOT FOR DISSIPATER.

Naval Hydrographic Office's Suggestion Brings No Results.

Prevention of fog at sea in the vicinity of a vessel cannot be accomplished by the distribution of oil on the surface of the water. Reports of experiments along this line, as recommended by the naval hydrographic office, indicate that such distribution of oil had no noticeable effect on the fog.

Four reports from naval vessels along the Maine and Massachusetts coasts and on the Delaware river show oil useless in dissolving or preventing fog. Off Marcus Hook, Pa., where there are a number of oil establishments, the U. S. S. Mohave on her trial trip ran into a dense fog. Her captain reported that there was a thick film of oil on the water for miles around, but the ship was fog-bound twelve hours.

Once we were four. But now there's one. For three have gone on before. Where many are, but none are here. And not in one hath my grief a share. So by their life of lovely faith, And by their joyful hope of death, Guide me, Lord, to a brighter shore, Where we shall be four again.
